

NRMC is organising training programme on “Integrated Farming Systems for livelihood security of small & marginal farmers”

Natural Resource Management Centre (NRMC), NABARD, Kolkata organising the training programme on “Integrated Farming Systems for livelihood security of small & marginal farmers” at Umiam (Barapani), Meghalaya from 13th to 16th March 2012 in collaboration with Farming System Research Project, ICAR Research Complex, Umiam, Meghalay (ICAR).

This training programme is special focused on the small & marginal farmers of the east and north-east part of the country. The themes of the training programme is to provide knowledge about the integrated farming systems for livelihood security and to ensure the best utilization of these systems by using appropriate technology to improve the productivity. This programme will help to improve the livelihood security of the people. The programme schedule is being developed with appropriate themes, topics and resource persons.

Participants will be from representatives of farmers' clubs of NABARD, CBOs, NGO's who can facilitate actual adoption in their area. The participants would be from east and north-east part of the country.